Team-mate Hulk smashes into a defender with his long legs. The FIFA Real Club Challenge supports 32 clubs from all over the world and every club will receive a unique code. Everyone can play the Real Club Challenge but it's much easier to get into. Players will need to own FIFA 18, and follow the instructions below to enter the Open Beta. First, the challenges are divided into three phases, Club, Mini-League and Global. The Club phase is where the Open Beta begins. Players will be randomly assigned to Club competitions, usually featuring a name of the player they are most familiar with. The Club phase will take place in teams of two in 9-a-side matches. It's likely we will see the Global Phase on PS4 only. What is the Club Challenge? The Club Challenge is divided into three phases, Club, Mini-League and Global. The Club phase is the beginning. Players will be randomly assigned to Club competitions, usually featuring a name of the player they are most familiar with. Clubs will be split into four groups: North, South, Central and Eastern, based on the percentage of English football clubs in the country. The groups will be based on domestic cup and league results from the past three seasons. Clubs outside of the top four of the English Premier League automatically qualify for the competition. Each Club will play as many matches as it wins in the Club phase. Points will be awarded for each match. The Club with the most points at the end of the Club phase will be crowned the Club Champion. This summer, we will visit Club Champions and tournaments including Wembley International Club Cup, The FA Youth Cup and The Football League Cup for the first time in the history of FIFA. *Asking "why is it just for PS4," it is not. For the first time, the FIFA Ultimate Team card pack will be available for both

FIFA 18 on PS4 and Xbox One when FIFA 22 launches. Below, we will test out the FIFA Ultimate Team card pack on FIFA 18 for PS4 and Xbox One. To play the FIFA Ultimate Team Challenge, you need to be signed into your own EA
