Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an instrument and method for measuring the travel time of a signal, and more particularly to an instrument for measuring the travel time of a superluminescent light pulse generated by stimulated Raman scattering using a grating pair of variable geometry. 2. Description of the Prior Art Measuring the time of flight of a light signal is a very useful tool for many measurement tasks. Recently, there has been a push to perform such measurements without the use of expensive equipment, and to provide such measurement capabilities in a small form factor such as a very compact and lightweight measuring instrument. Unfortunately, time of flight measurements have been limited in their accuracy, primarily because of the inability to achieve the extremely high
