The contract requires that i balance the following equation. What does it mean?
$$\text{min\_sell\_amount} * (1 + \text{average}(\text{percent\_spent\_on\_spends})) - \text{min\_buy\_amount}$$
As the min_buy_amount and min_sell_amount are constant, I can't quite understand what the above means. A: The notation is called "dividend" in finance. It's a computation that happens when a company's assets are being used to pay employees and have not yet been returned to investors as a dividend. The basic explanation is that the company is spending money on something and investors have a right to be paid back with interest as soon as they are able to do so. For example, a company that spends $100 million to buy some raw materials will be
