D_TO_EXE_FAVORITE_CHECK_BOX in the Form.Designer.cs (or.resx) if the check box is true then the user will be able to change the Favorite status of the application. Just open the designer.cs file and you will find this piece of code: this.AddFavorsButton.Checked = default; this.AddFavorsButton.CheckStateChanged += new System.EventHandler(this.AddFavorsButton_Chec kStateChanged); this.AddF avorsButton.Enabled = default; this.AddFavorsButt on.ForeColor = default; this

.AddFavorsButton.Location
= new System.Drawing.Point(22, 7); this.AddFavorsButton.N ame = "AddFavorsButton";
this.AddFavorsButton.Size
= new System.Drawing.Size(48, 26); this.AddFavorsButton.
TabIndex = 1;
this.AddFavorsButton.Tag

    = "FavorsButton";
    this.AddFavorsButton.Text = "Add Favorite"; this.AddF
avorsButton.UseVisualStyle BackColor = true; this.Add FavorsButton.Visible =
default; so when the check box is not checked the line
this.AddFavorsButton.Chec ked = default; is always false and the AddFavorite button is Enabled = false.

If the checkbox is true
there you will find this line:
this.AddFavorsButton.Chec

kStateChanged += new System.EventHandler(this.AddFavorsButton_CheckStateChanged); this way the CheckStateChanged event is raised when the checkbox is checked and changed. Now if you want that the user cannot change the Favorite status of your application you must change the default value of the ADD_TO_EXE_FAVORITE_CHECK_BOX so the Checked property is always false and disable the Enabled property of the button. A Nun Has Once
