The Minecraft version and Forge version must match up to the Mod as specified in the Discussion . For development purposes, in case of Forge, we recommend using the latest 1.11.2. It is also recommended to have the latest version of Java, which can be downloaded from Oracle by visiting the Java for Developers page. Note to Appstore customers: If youve recently noticed an app is not updating, or the download count for an app is very low then this is probably a combination of the following: Theres not an easy way to disable notifications for updates, so app developers arent notified. This does not mean the apps might be reporting no download count. In this case theres always something wrong with the apps code There are a set of blocks that protect the blocks containing raw blocks. In these protected regions, the block counting wont update. In other words, players cant see how many blocks there are even if theyve made it that far. Blocks arent directly counted but counted by the chunks, which are counted by the world. The chunks are counted by a series of block locations at the edge of the chunk, when the chunk is created or merged. Each chunk has 0 to 255 blocks. Theres not an easy way to send raw code outside of the blocks protected region. This is a security feature, so some apps cannot be updated directly An app that is listed as trusted by Mojang (see the gitalog), but doesnt have the latest version will not get a notification for an update Some apps do not allow non-app specific questions to be answered.
