But there is one that is not working correctly for me. I create a new Encrypted document and move the file to the bin/ folder with some new content in it, but I can still see the file as an encrypted one in the bin/ folder. This tool is supposed to make the file disappear from the folder, so it's not supposed to show an encrypted one in the folder, is it? As you can see, in the video there's some new content on the encrypted file. I tried to delete the file in the bin/ folder, but it's still showing on the bin/ folder. I think this might be a bug with the tool or some settings? How do I fix this bug with Keymacro? We have seen a lot of new ransomware this year that doesn't want to be contained by the antivirus apps. One such example is new ransomware named "Blacksmith". Unlike other variants, this one does not have a ransom note, only a.bat file extension. Once executed, it will change the extension of all the files to.blacksmith and then encrypt them using the AES-256 encryption algorithm. It also encrypts the files by making them read-only. If you see one of those files and try to open it, you will see that it is actually impossible to do so. You will receive a warning saying that the file is encrypted. "The Emsisoft Decryptor for Diavol is a post-infection application that allows you to recover files that were encrypted by the malicious software. The recovery process can take several minutes, depending on the number of files that need to be decrypted and the complexity of the encryption algorithms used by the malware. The application is a free standalone tool that works without requiring an internet connection. It requires that a pair of files is available on the infected machine: the encrypted file and its decryption key. To successfully recover the files, the application will have to guess the decryption key. To make the guessing process faster and more accurate, it will try to reconstruct the decryption key from a smaller set of related files. The software will then search for the key in the encrypted file. It will then repeat this process for all other files. Once a decryption key is found for all the files, the application will decrypt them. If the files are indeed encrypted by the malware, the files will appear in their original state after the decryption process. It is recommended to keep a copy of the unencrypted version of each file in case the encrypted version is not available." Advanced Malware A: Free Cryptocat To be really sure of you were not infected with any kind of ransomware, you should use a free service like Cryptocat, which doesn't require you to decrypt your files.
